

The prospect of having to work with organizations working in different fields and from different walks of life is what excites me the most about tensors webOps team, unlike other webops opportunities available in insti, which are highly oriented towards one aspect. The requirements of each organization would be unique and provides us with an opportunity to learn something new.